Under the headline "Andy Bashers Take a Holiday," Rich Hoffman of The Philadelphia Daily News chided Eagles fans, or, cheap mlb jerseys as he called some of them, cheap nfl jerseys the Balance Police. Excerpt: cheap jerseys wholesale,wholesale jerseys

They weren't getting anything out of it (but for one 27-yard run by Correll Buckhalter). cheap jerseys wholesale,wholesale jerseys The rest of the time, Brian Westbrook was banging his head against a wall and he didn't look like he had the burst it would take to bounce outside. So Reid and offensive coordinator Marty Mornhinweg did what they almost always do in that situation — they threw.

At the point where Westbrook caught the 71-yard screen pass for a touchdown, the Eagles has called about 68 percent passes and 32 percent runs. When they are losing, these are the kinds of numbers that get Reid barbecued. It is only a few play calls away from the sainted concept of balance, but people here insist that those play calls are the holy grail. Well, he wasn't balanced yesterday. So why aren't the Balance Police out in force?

Because it was never about the play-calling, except in the most extreme cases. It is about the players.

The Andy-bashers are giving the coach grudging credit for sticking with the run game against the Vikings even though it wasn't working. This is wrong. He didn't stick with it. cheap jerseys wholesale,wholesale jerseys,sports jerseys china,majestic jerseys,custom nfl jerseys cheap

A reader in the comments section countered: cheap jerseys wholesale,wholesale jerseys,sports jerseys china,majestic jerseys,custom nfl jerseys cheap

Rich, I admire your work and have always respected your opinions. However, it is clear that you don't get it when it comes to the playcalling gripe fans have with Andy. Your logic has always been to blame the players — essentially saying that the coaches are incapable of putting the players in a bad position.

Extra point: In his news conference, Reid was asked, cheap jerseys wholesale,wholesale jerseys,sports jerseys china,majestic jerseys,custom nfl jerseys cheap as he frequently is, about the run-pass balance: "We tried to keep it as balanced as we could so I didn't have to answer that question. I can't believe you asked that question, but I am kind of glad you did."

The unbalanced approach puts the players in a bad position. Running the ball provides balance, and to be honest, Andy's philosophy yesterday was an improvement. Considering what Minny's numbers were against the run (#1 in the league), what Reid did was appropriate. It's when he's facing teams that aren't as good against the run as they are against the pass — when he's incessantly calling passes that fly in the face of logic — that drive fans nuts.
